Education

Gabriel B. Amorim holds a Ph.D. in Linguistics from the Universidade Federal do Espírito Santo, completed under the supervision of Kyria Finardi. He earned a master's degree in Foreign Languages (TESOL) from West Virginia University (2010) under the supervision of Dr. Cynthia Chalupa, he holds a B.A. in English Language and Literature from Universidade Federal do Espírito Santo (2005).

Work Experience

Currently, he is an EFL teacher at Núcleo de Línguas (Languages Center) at the Universidade Federal do Espírito Santo, where he teaches various age and proficiency groups. At the Center, he also conducts teacher education sessions to the group of 60 teachers that teach about 5,000 students of English, French, Spanish, Italian and German. Besides that, he partakes in other functions such as mentoring groups of novice teachers every academic semester; elaborating, revising and grading proficiency exams; and sitting in search committees for new teachers.

He has also taught English in the USA during his stay at West Virginia University, which gave him another perspective about the teaching of this language and the dichotomy ESL/EFL. Upon his return to Brazil, he taught as an Assistant Professor at UFES from 2011 to 2018 at alternate periods of time, which gave him sound experience in higher education.

In addition, he has extensive experience in teaching in language courses throughout his almost 17 years of teaching career.

Professional Associations

He is currently a member of the Brazilian Association of Applied Linguistics (ALAB), for which he worked extensively in the past couple of years organizing the 12th Brazilian Congress of Applied Linguistics (CBLA) and is now organizing a second book with the works of the conference to be released in the 13th CBLA in 2021.

He is also the member of the Espírito Santo Association of English Teacher (APIES), for which he was invited to present his research this past September in the association's annual conference.

Publications and Collaborations

He has published a number of scientific in international journals and book chapters in the area of internationalization of higher education. He organized the 12th CBLA Annals and is now organizing a book with the papers from the 12th CBLA to be released in 2021. Besides that, he has collaborated with over 12 undergraduate graduation projects from UFES and is working on 2 at the moment.

He belongs to two research projects at UFES, one at internationalization and technology and the other on language education. The group's productivity is quite extensive.
